A SORROWFUL CLOSING.

New York is out in the cold, so far as championships are concerned, but for all that championships really count for this year, when no arrangement has been made for a contest which will decisively place the world's pennant, the metropolis has suffered little loss.

For next sesson it is promised that things shall all be changed—that there shall be a grand restoration of baseball. | a par with the masculme club. with all the old laurels again in sight and all the hostilities of '90 dropped into his-

Friends of the game sauguinely hope for the fulfilment of this promise, believ ing that if it is kept the National pastime will abundantly demonstrate its own lasting greatness and its ability to rise from the embarra-sments brought on by unfor tunate conditions.

THE MCONICAL VERDICT.

There is always a sense of relief when the verdict which the public has passed upon some offense is justified by the twelve men who have carefully weighed the case and decided the culpability of the prisoner. This is so in the case of Dr. McGonigat, who has been convicted of manslaughter in the first degree.

THE EVENING WORLD has given so complete an account of this celebrated case and has been so faithful in putting before its readers the proceedings in court during the trial that every intelligent person has been able to form a good judgment of the prisoner.

He is a deprayed, mercenary monster, whose wickedness is of a particularly revolting kind. The sentence will be awaited with interest.

REDUCED FARE.

The question of reduced fare is so rea sonable that a number of city rallway companies have shown themselves willing to adopt it for the benefit of the children If this is done-and it should be done by all the car lines-the need of opening the school gates earlier becomes stronger than ever, for there will be more children at the gates.

The former delivered a stirring speech in favor of nominating a candidate for Mayor, but the latter, who doubted the legality of the proposed election and whose judgment the courts subsequently sustained, did not put in an appearance. The next morning the two gentlemes met in the street.

"Storrs," said Swe't, with one of his well-remembered frowns, "why didn't you come around last night? It was a great meeting; fully 30,000 were there."

SNAKES IN MELONS.

A New Source of Danger to Lovers of the Huge Berries.

Recently a small boy let fall a water relos, which burst on the ground. Inside the melon was a snake twelve inches long, says a Bridgeport (111.) correspondent of the Chicago Herali.

It had an eel-like appearance, but was dark colored, with white spots over its body. Although torpid, it was alive and began to craw away when the melon burst. The fragments of the melon, when piaced together, showed that the rind was intact before the melon burst, and the snake must have grown in the melon from the time it was a blossom.

Although a similar occurrence has been reported it was never before observed in the melon country there. The authenhead and general disputited feeting. reported it was never before observed in the melon country there. The authen-ticity of this case is undoubted, as Dr. J. C. Barr was close by and saw the snake an instant after it left its place in the melon. The spot where it fell was a smooth piece of ground as bare as a floor.

Accompanying it was a statement to the effect that the woman's baby had taken the bill from the mattel, and in his baby ignorance of the value of wealth put the piece of paper in his mouth and masticates and swallowed it till only one-half of it was left in a recognizable condition. Would Mr. Reed be kind enough to go over to the Treasury Popartment and see if he could get a new bill for the one which the baby had destroyed.

The Speaker sent the piece of ragged paper to the Treasury by one of his clerks, and thus learned that the Treasury was willing to give a half-dollar for the mutilated note, and on presentation of an affidavit that the remaining half had actually been masticated and swallowed by the baby would pay the other half.

Reflecting that an affidavit would cost the woman 25 cens, a postage stamp and lat of bather. The Speaker conclusion in
